The Ma'ayan Programme

In June 2018 ten women graduated from the Chief Rabbi's Ma'ayan Programme, having completed 18 months of learning and training to become high-level educators for the Jewish community, as well as advisors in the area of Taharat Hamishpacha (laws of family purity) and women's health issues. To deliver the programme, the Chief Rabbi assembled a team of experts in their fields. The halachic strand was taught by Dayan Simons of the London Beth Din, and the medical and scientific aspects were taught by lecturers from University College London's Institute for Women's Health. Participants were exposed to a wide range of expertise through lectures and workshops delivered by doctors, professors, psychologists, fertility experts, educational and programming specialists, and the Chief Rabbi himself. Speaking after the graduation ceremony The Chief Rabbi expressed the wish that, "The 'Ma'ayan' programme will strengthen our communities' Torah observance and learning, in order 'Lehagdil Torah uleha'adira – to magnify Torah and bring glory to its name." Magen Avot has already been privileged to hear from two of the graduates, Raisel Freedman and Joanne Greenaway, and this week we are delighted to welcome a third, Rebbetzen Leanne Binstock.

Profile

Leanne Binstock is the Associate Rebbetzen of Hendon United Synagogue. Born and raised in South Africa, she went to Beis Yaakov High School in Johannesburg, Bnos Chava and Moreshet Seminaries in Israel, and has a BCom in Industrial Psychology from the University of South Africa. She worked in Jewish Education in South Africa and then moved to London take up a position in Jewish outreach at the JLE. She moved to Jerusalem and was the 'Em Bayit' at Be'er Miriam Seminary and studied in the women's programme of the Jerusalem Kollel while her husband obtained Semicha there. Leanne is now a participant on the Ma'ayan programme.
