Sunday 10 October

ECO SYNAGOGUE Join this pre Cop26 event in person (numbers limited) or via livestream.

Sunday 10th October 19:30 to 21:30
The Jewish Museum, London
Email Andrea.Passe@bod.org.uk for an invite or more information invites you to hear why this is important to the Jewish community, how we can get to Carbon Zero and what the Jewish community is currently doing.

Welcoming The Chief Rabbi, Ephraim Mirvis, President of The Board of Deputies, Marie van der Zyl, the EcoSynagogue Rabbinic Team and expert guests.

The EcoSynagogue Rabbinic team will be exploring with the help of Chief Rabbi Ephraim Mirvis and Marie van der Zyl (President of the Board of Deputies), why our community should be engaging with the issue of Climate Emergency.

This will be followed by an expert panel to explain the issues around carbon and how it can and should be reduced. The panel includes Dr Michal Nachmany (a respected authority on global climate legislation, policy and the low carbon transition), Jonathan Waxman (an expert on renewable energy and sustaining a liveable planet through wind energy) and Charles Ogilvie (Director of Strategy, COP26 the Cabinet Office).

Finally, we hope to be spotlighting environmental initiatives currently operational within the Jewish community both in the UK and abroad.

Email Andrea.Passe@bod.org.uk for an invite/more details.

Livestream via <https://www.facebook.com/EcoSynagogue> or livestream via YouTube at: <https://tinyurl.com/4jfr26sh>.
